

Thousands Enjoy First Light Opera Of Summer Season

Smoothness and Finish of Opening Performance Promises Great Success for Engagement.

OPERA PRINCIPALS WARMLY CHEERED

Atlanta Chorus Lives Up to All Expectations. Cooling System Helps Auditorium's Popularity.

Presenting "The Mikado" in a manner that fulfilled the dreams of years of all lovers of Gilbert and Sullivan's wonderful masterpiece, Atlanta's Municipal Opera company Monday night launched a six weeks season of light opera with brilliancy and delight that presages a joyous time ahead this summer.

In an auditorium revolutionized by the new cooling system, a perfect orchestra led a cast of performers through the tuneful highways and byways of the old, yet ever new, composition in a way that added new charm to those former dreams that have blessed all who have heard "The Mikado" as it used to be sung.

From the moment the male chorus began to tell us "who they are," to the finale "joyous shout," of the score it was a night of constantly unfolding enjoyment. Really, this new Atlanta organization has brought to us a present that ranks with the best Atlanta ever received. And you who attend the Metropolitan opera every year, who visit the exhibitions of the Grand Central Art galleries and who follow the course of the annual concert seasons, will admit that Atlanta is accustomed to receiving wonderful presents in the entertainment line.

Great Orchestra.

First the orchestra told us that all the advance stories were true. They played the overture, and we knew that in very truth the musicians had come direct from the Metropolitan orchestra. Under the baton of Conductor Paul Elser they swung into the fitting rhythm of the score with a perfection of artistry that boded tremendous things to come.

Then the great red curtains opened on a stage setting as beautiful as anyone could ask to see, and the program told the audience that the scenery was by the Atlanta Scenic company—scores on for local ability.

The chorus, a male ensemble recruited from local singers, trained here and drilled here. Score two for local ability. And, later, when the feminine ensemble came fluttering on the stage, score of big three for local ability.

The principals Monday night simply won homes in Atlanta. That's all. Or course, Louise Hunter, that dainty charming little soprano of the Metropolitan had paid a heavy first installment on that Atlanta home when she sang with the Metropolitan. But after last night she can burn up the last mortgage and count her title clear.

Other Principals.

And Irene Dunne. Do you remember her at the Atlanta two seasons ago in the title role of that great musical comedy, "Irene"? It is the same Irene, but with added opportunity for the display of her piquant personality and her really fine voice. When she launched into "He's Going to Marry Yum Yum," a grin of delight swept over every face in the audience.

George Meador, who, with Louise Hunter, comes from the Metropolitan itself is the possessor of a genuinely great tenor voice. He acquitted himself nobly last night and the tenor problem for the season is solved.

As for a contralto, we want no one better than Anne Yago. She sings the comedy role of "Katisha" in "The Mikado," but if you remember your Gilbert and Sullivan as well as you

COUNCIL DEFEATS PLAN TO REPEAL FREE TEXTBOOKS

At attempt to repeal the free textbook law in Atlanta met defeat Monday when city council voted against a proposed charter amendment which would have requested the legislature to repeal the law. The paper was reported adversely by the charter revision committee.

Councilman Ed H. Inman, author of the measure, stated that the law has caused this city to shoulder a tremendous burden. About $50,000 will be needed this year to replace worn-out books, he said, in addition to the amount required to provide new books for the seventh and eighth grades. His contention was that the money should be taken from the school appropriation, instead of being paid by council in addition to the schools' regular 20 per cent. He stated that he favored buying books for students who cannot afford them, but is opposed to furnishing every child with books.

Councilman John A. White and T. L. Slappey took the floor in defense of the present law, charging that it is the city's duty to provide children with an education, and that many of them cannot get this education unless furnished with books.

COUNCIL VOTES FOR EAST LAKE MERGER, 20-12

Legislature Will Be Asked To Authorize Election To Decide on Annexation to Atlanta.

MERGER OF THREE SUBURBS PROPOSED

Separate Vote Is Asked by Citizens of Hapeville, East Point and College Park Upon Annexation.

Despite an adverse report of the charter revision committee, city council Monday voted to ask the legislature to authorize a referendum on the question of whether or not the city of East Lake should be annexed to Atlanta. The vote was 20 to 12.

The action was taken by adoption of a substitute, introduced by Councilman T. L. Slappey, for the committee's report, and which, if passed by the legislature, will give citizens of East Lake an opportunity to vote on the annexation question.

Annexation Urged.

Charter amendments also were introduced Monday by Councilman Slappey asking that citizens of East Point, Hapeville and College Park be given another opportunity to vote separately on becoming part of Atlanta. His measure calls for a separate vote from each city, and would allow one, two, or all three to come in. It was referred to the charter revision committee.

The last election was lost after Hapeville and College Park, by a big majority, voted for annexation, but East Point defeated the measure, and because all three voted together, they all were forced to remain separate municipalities.

In line with the city's expansion program, council also voted to annex property near Kirkwood, and a small strip in Druid Hills. This merger will go into effect on legislative action.

A motion to include a large section of Druid Hills is expected at the next meeting.

Ends Long Debate.

Adoption of the East Lake paper came only after a long debate, and after a motion to table the substitute had been beaten by a count of 18 to 14. The measure then was passed, 20 to 12.

Councilman Slappey made a plea to put the proposition up to East Lake citizens with the understanding that Atlanta cannot promise any improvements for a period of several years.

Alderman Claude E. Buchanan, a member of the charter revision committee, who was present at a public hearing on the question last week, opposed Mr. Slappey's measure, contending that Atlanta has no funds with which to provide fire and police protection, and install sewer and water for the new territory. He took the stand that until the city's financial condition is improved, the territory should not be added.

Opposes Annexation.

Councilman C. D. Knight also opposed annexation, claiming that whether or not East Lake people expect improvements, Atlanta will be forced to furnish police and fire protection.

Councilman Horace Russell spoke for the measure, contending that East Lake residents really are Atlantans, and should be given privileges enjoyed by other residents of this city.

"Property in East Lake has an assessed value of $1,300,000," he said, "and the town has a bonded indebtedness of $22,000, with an annual income of about $20,000. It has between 750 and 1,000 inhabitants."

"East Lake's school extends only

Young Killers To Get Noose, Judge Decries

Jones and Bloodworth, Denied New Trial, To Appeal to Supreme Court.

Columbus, Ga., June 15.—Willie Jones and Gerrie Bloodworth, Taylor county youths, who are under sentence to hang here June 26, were this morning denied a new trial by Judge Charles E. Roop, of Carrollton.

One of the main grounds in the amended motion filed by Homer Beeland Friday claimed that one of the jurors at the second trial here was prejudiced and biased because he had declared before the trial that the boys should be hanged. Counter affidavits were forwarded to Judge Roop Saturday with the result and that he denied the new trial today.

The next step of counsel for the defense will be to appeal the case to the supreme court, thereby staying the execution which is scheduled Friday of next week.

When Jones and Bloodworth tonight heard of the decisions of Judge Roop, they said they were not surprised and that they were still hopeful. Five dates for their execution have been set for the murder in Taylor county in 1923 of Howard Underwood, a traveling salesman.

Election Is Asked On Tax Exemption For New Factories

BRITISHER'S DEATH THREATENS CRISIS IN CHINESE RIOTS

City Council To Request General Assembly To Pass Charter Amendment At This Session.

5 YEARS' FREEDOM FROM TAXES ASKED

Law Also Will Affect All Additions to Factories Now in Operation in Atlanta.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, June 15.—The killing today of W. W. Mackenzie, and the wounding of his companion, Miss Mary Duncan, British subjects, by Chinese snipers, promised to shift the center of interest in the disorders in that country back to Shanghai from Canton, although official word of the new and more serious anti-foreign outrage still was lacking.

It seemed certain that the wanton attack on non-combatant foreigners would be made the basis of action by the Peking diplomats or the governments involved.

To Demand Action.

The Peking legation, it was said here, would be sure to move quickly in demanding action by the Chinese central authorities. Even if it took place within the international settlement, where foreign police are in charge, it was thought, representations would be made at Peking, with the evil effects of its policy in championing the rioters at Shanghai pointed out to the provisional government.

Officials here have felt increasingly confident that the agitation among Chinese students would not develop into the general attack on foreigners, which marked the Boxer uprising and let the powers to joint military operations in China.

Amends Are Expected.

Influential leaders among the agitators apparently have been endeavoring to avoid any such contingency, realizing it could only result in the landing of sufficient foreign troops and marines to protect all foreign nationals and to administer severe punishment for any casualties.

The real power behind the Peking provisional government, Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchuria war lord, also has foreseen this possibility and not only has warned the Chinese but sent selected troops to danger points to preserve order, and for these reasons, it was believed likely here that the central government authorities would hasten to make what amends they could in the Mackenzie-Duncan case.

FURTHER DEMONSTRATIONS ARE STAGED IN PEKIN.

San Francisco, June 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—There has been no diminution in the anti-foreign feeling in China.

New Industries Needed.

"If Atlanta is to prosper, we must have new industries, here," Mayor Sims stated on being informed of passage of the measure. "We already have the railroad facilities and natural resources to make this section one of the greatest manufacturing districts in the country, and we should use every effort to induce new concerns to locate here."

"I have been told that several large plants, employing many men, would have located here during the past few years if it were not for the high taxes. The least we can do is to exempt them for a few years, and give them an opportunity to become well established."

"In view of the legislature's action in authorizing any city or county to exempt new industries from taxation, there is little doubt but that the general assembly this year will empower us to hold an election. Elbertson already has taken advantage of the law, held an election, and voted for the exemption clause. Given an opportunity, Atlantans will do likewise, and the result, I think, will be amazing."

WE TO SUSTAINED ON FINANCE SHEET

For the first time in many years, the finance committee of city council will be forced to redraft a finance sheet, following council's action Monday afternoon in sustaining Mayor Walter A. Sims' veto of the June sheet.

As predicted, administration forces lined up almost solidly against the motion to override, and it drew only eight votes, against 13 to uphold the chief executive's action.

Work Starts Wednesday.
Work on the new sheet will be started when the finance committee goes into executive session at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. Alderman W. B. Duvall, chairman, announced following the council meeting. He stated that he is undecided as to what methods will be adopted in solving the problem, as, in his opinion, the rejected sheet was "safe," and contained no unnecessary appropriations. The mayor vetoed the sheet on the grounds that it anticipated $5,000,000 in assessed valuations, which, he said, tax assessors told him will not be realized. He advocated cutting of all possible expenses at this time, and stated that adoption of the sheet would have left the city facing a large deficit at the end of the year, in addition to the $250,000 already advanced the school department.

In his message, sent to the council with the veto, the mayor stated that "it is suicidal for a government to spend more than its revenue," and pointed out that, while there is no indication that more money will be received from general taxes than was apparent in January, additional receipts of $75,000 have been anticipated in the sheet.

Duvall Leads Fight.
Dr. Duvall led the fight to override, contending that the sheet makes no anticipation that will not be fulfilled, and making a plea, in behalf of the various departments of city government, that council override the veto and adopt the sheet.

"The finance committee considered every detail of the sheet carefully," he said, "and approved it unanimously. We think that the sheet is safe and conservative, and provides no expenditures that are not needed."
"We anticipated taxes on real estate assessed at $295,000,000, and the field books of the tax assessors show that amount. The assessors have not completed personal property valuations, but have estimated them at $91,000,000. However, they told us that we could safely anticipate an additional $5,000,000, and we based our figures on an even $100,000,000. True, we over-anticipated on $4,000,000 worth, but in January, at the request of the mayor, we over-anticipated $10,000,000 and appropriated the $150,000 in taxes to one of the mayor's projects."
"Present indications are that water and recorder's court receipts, with all others, will reach the amounts anticipated."

Departments to Suffer.
Dr. Duvall explained that the departments will be the ones to suffer by the delay caused by drafting of a new sheet, as appropriations for their operating expenses are being held up. However, no salaries or other necessary expenditure provided in the January sheet will be held back.

Councilman John A. White opposed adoption of the sheet on the grounds that it calls for expenditure of more than the receipts will be. He stated that he favored everything provided in the sheet, but that the city must live within its means, regardless of what it must go without.
Councilman Ed H. Inman took the same view, and also pointed out that a considerable amount of the $500,000 worth of it, carried over from last year, will be worthless.
Alderman J. Allen Couch spoke in favor of adopting the sheet, stating that the matter had been investigated carefully by members of the finance committee, and that council should be willing to accept its judgment.

Vote On Sheet.
Following was the vote:
To override the veto—Councilmen Slappey, Allen, Vaughn, Etheridge, Jenkins, Russell, Cooper, and Saunders—5.
To sustain veto—Councilmen Chosewood, White, Morris, Baker, York, Moore, Inman, Reynolds, Knight, Calaway, Sudderth, Johnson and House—13.

The sheet called for expenditure of approximately $220,000 more than the January sheet.

Appropriations Asked.
Following are the largest new appropriations called for in the June sheet:
A new ventilating system for the city auditorium, $17,000; $4,000 for purchase of property adjoining the auditorium; $10,000 for trucks for the sanitary department; $4,500 for new cars in the police department; $8,000 for installation of a new record system in the tax assessor's office; $3,200 for x-ray machine at Grady hospital; $10,500 for operating expenses of the new psychopathic ward at Grady hospital, which opens next month; $5,000 for general street repairs; $3,000 for widening of Peters street; $7,500 for the stockade building for men; $2,100 for the women's stockade; $4,000 for Spring street sidewalk bridge; $15,000 for repairs and replacements of building at Lakewood park; $1,000 to start work of widening Edgewood avenue, and $1,500 for staging of a Christmas pageant.

Monday marked the first time in a number of years that a finance sheet veto has been upheld by council. Mayor Sims vetoed the January sheet in 1924, but his disapproval was overridden.

EAST LAKE MERGER
APPROVED BY COUNCIL

through sixth grade, and many citizens there are unable to pay the annual tuition fee of $100 necessary to send their children to Atlanta high schools. Yet those people work in Atlanta, and really form a part of this community. If they want to reside in, they should be taken in, as that is the only way in which Atlanta can grow.

At last week's public hearing before the charter revision committee, large delegations appeared for each side. However, Mr. Russell claimed that a great majority of people have expressed themselves as desirous of coming into Atlanta.

Means 5,000 Increase.

Annexation of Hapeville, College Park and East Point would mean increasing Atlanta's population by approximately 5,000 people, and adding valuation of property with an assessed valuation of about $10,000,000.

Mr. Slappey, in introducing the paper, pointed out that residents of College Park and Hapeville at the last election demonstrated that they wished to come into Atlanta. The measure proposed would be a city limit, whether or not East Point voted for annexation.
Council also voted to ask the legislature to add several square miles near Kiewit to Atlanta. The property is bounded by the present city limits, Fair street and Glenwood avenue, and extends as far east as the western boundary of East Lake. It also was voted to include in the city a small strip of land on Virginia avenue between Briarcliff road and Rosedale avenue.

A petition asking annexation of a tract in South Decatur, extending from the intersection of the Georgia railway and East Lake drive out East to the city limits, and along the city limits to the starting point, was killed when an adverse report of the charter revision committee was made.

Seeks Druid Hills Property.

Councilman Horace Russell announced Monday that at the adjourned meeting Thursday, he will ask that part of Druid Hills, extending from the intersection of Briarcliff road and the present limits out Briarcliff road to Emory drive, along Emory drive to Clifton road, and along Clifton road back to the limits, be included in the city. If that is passed, Emory university would lie just outside the limits.

The proposed amendment introduced by Alderman C. M. Ford calls for annexation of 167 acres just east of Stewart avenue, and adjoining Capitol View. The paper was referred to the charter revision committee, which will meet next week, in order that council may act on all papers before the legislature adjourns.

COUNTY IS ASKED TO DONATE LAND
FOR CITY BUILDING

An important step toward erection of a new municipal building for Atlanta was taken Monday when city council voted to ask Fulton county to donate to the city land in the rear of and adjoining the present court house as a site for the proposed new building.

Councilman C. G. Allen, of the second ward, who introduced the resolution, reviewed briefly the plan for the proposed 20-story million and a half dollar building, which would house all city departments, including fire and police.

He spoke of the proposed location adjoining the court house as the best that could be obtained, because of its proximity to the court house, and because it is central. In addition, he pointed out, the city will be required to spend little for a site if the county grants Monday's request.

The mayor in question fronts on Central avenue and is near the intersection of Hunter street. It extends about half the length of the block, and the rear of the block, according to Mr. Allen, could be purchased from private owners at a reasonable price.

Several bids already have been submitted on the proposed city hall at Forsyth and Marietta streets; first department headquarters on Alabama street, and police barracks on Decatur street. The city will not take any of those three buildings, as it is not enough for construction of the proposed city hall.

The proposed building, according to plans already drawn, would be a magnificent affair, with room for fire and police department headquarters, the city jail, court rooms, and offices of all city departments, including an individual office for each council member.

COUNCIL UPHOLDS
CARNegie RAISES;
VETO IS EXPECTED

By defeating a motion to reconsider, city council Monday afternoon voted to establish a sliding scale of salary increases for practically all Carnegie library employees, which will extend over the next four years.

Council voted the pay hikes at its last meeting but the matter was held up when Councilman Harry York served notice of reconsideration. The proposed increase, however, must be voted by the aldermanic board and approved by the mayor before becoming effective.

The mayor already has expressed his disapproval of granting any raises at this time, and his veto of the paper is expected.

Mr. York raised a point of order that it was not legal for this year's council to bind future councils, but Alderman W. H. Hartsfield, presiding, refused to allow the contention, and ruled the paper legal.

Following a debate in which Councilman Horace Russell spoke in favor of the raises, and Councilman T. C. Morris against them, Mr. York's motion to reconsider was defeated, 11 to 9, and the paper was sent to the aldermanic board with approval of common council.

ATLANTA WILL ASK FOR POLICE POWER
AT CANDLER FIELD

Jurisdiction of the Atlanta police department will be extended to include Candler field, recently leased by the city as a municipal airplane landing field, if a charter amendment approved by city council Monday is voted by the legislature.

Alderman W. B. Hartsfield, author of the paper, explained that, in order to properly supervise the field, it will be necessary to have police on the scene, and that, although the field is outside the city limits, it is owned by the city and should be guarded by Atlanta policemen.

COUNCIL VOTES
$145,000 SALE
OF BABY BONDS

Sale of $145,000 baby bonds, for use in paving 22 Atlanta streets, was authorized by city council Monday by adoption of a favorable report submitted by the finance committee. Bonds will be sold about July 1, according to City Comptroller B. Graham West.

INCREASE VOTED IN ASSESSMENTS
FOR CITY SEWERS

Increase in sewer assessments from $1.25 to $1.50 per foot is called for in a charter amendment which city council Monday voted to request the legislature to adopt.

Councilman John A. White opposed the increase, stating that assessments are levied on each side of a street and which sewers are being laid, bringing the cost to $2.50 per running foot, and that contractors do similar work for about half that price.

Alderman Claude E. Buchanan, chairman of the sewer committee, and author of the paper, stated that present rates do not provide sufficient funds to pay the cost of construction. The increase, he explained, has not been caused so much because of cost of construction as on account of the fact that with almost every new sewer laid it is necessary to build a new outfall line of several thousand feet to connect the sewer with a trunk line. At present rates, he declared, the city is building sewers at a loss.

CHANGE IN CITY
PRISON CONTROL
ASKED OF SOLONS

Consolidation of city prisons, stockade farms, and city dairy farm with the construction department was voted Monday by city council, and will become effective as soon as approved by the mayor.

Under the new law, the chief of construction will be in charge of both the men's and women's stockades and the dairy farm, and will have authority to appoint all necessary officials and subordinates, subject to approval of the prison committee. The present superintendent of prisons, however, will serve the full length of his term.

The change was made, it was explained, because prisoners in the stockade do much work for the construction department, and the two departments are closely allied in many other respects.

ATLANTA AWWING
LAW IS CHANGED
BY CITY COUNCIL

Awnings over sidewalk in front of business establishments now be only seven feet from the walk at their lowest point, instead of eight in accordance with the ordinance in force before the ordinance adopted Monday by city council.

In addition, the amendment provided that the permit to be obtained from the building inspector before any new awnings can be put up. Changes were recommended by the street committee, and passed unanimously.

RIDING ON RUNNING
BOARDS OF AUTOS
PLACED UNDER BAN

If Mayor Sims approves an ordinance passed by city council Monday afternoon, standing or riding on the running board of an automobile or other vehicle will be punishable by a fine.

The measure was introduced by Alderman Claude E. Buchanan in an attempt to lessen the number of injuries suffered in automobile accidents.

"The practice of riding on the running board of an automobile is very dangerous," he said, "and if people will not stop it for their own safety, we must make them stop. Only few days ago, a young man was killed because he was standing on the running board when two autos collided."

$1,000 FEE VOTED
FOR SALE OF LAND
OUTSIDE GEORGIA

Payment of an annual license fee of $1,000 by all firms in Atlanta selling real estate located outside of Georgia is provided in a charter amendment approved by city council Monday.

The measure was sponsored by Councilman W. E. Saunders, and was introduced in the interest of protecting Georgia real estate. It came to council with approval of the charter revision committee.

POSTING PLACARDS
ON ATLANTA POLES AND TREES BARRED

A new form of campaigning may break out among candidates in the September primaries, as posting of placards on trees and telephone poles will not be permitted this year.

Mayor Walter A. Sims put a stop to that Monday when he instructed Acting Chief of Police Jett to enforce the law preventing posting of any signs or cards on trees and poles in the city limits.

The chief has been instructed to all signs now on posts torn down, and to make cases against any future offenders.

NEW STEP TAKEN
FOR STIMULATION
OF CITY PAVING

The legislature was requested to legalize circulation of paving petitions by city employees in a proposed charter amendment approved Monday by city council. At present, neither city employees nor contractors are allowed to circulate petitions, and it is thought that passage of the amendment will stimulate paving in Atlanta.

EXEMPTION OF CITY
CARS FROM STATE
TAX IS REQUESTED

A charter amendment asking that all city automobiles be exempted from payment of license taxes and other state fees was passed by city council Monday, and will be presented to the legislature at this year's session.

COUNCIL TO MEET
AGAIN THURSDAY
TO END BUSINESS

With considerable routine business remaining on the calendar, city council after a long session Monday, adjourned until 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Practically all important papers were disposed of Monday, however, and Thursday's meeting probably will be taken up with routine committee reports.

BRITISHER'S DEATH
THREATENS CRISIS

ing in China, dispatches from various parts of that country indicate, and increasing efforts are being made by the foreign powers and the Chinese authorities to protect foreigners.

A foreigner, W. W. Mackenzie, of the electricity department of the Shanghai municipal council, was killed Monday night while driving along the Great Western road, which extends beyond the boundaries of the foreign concessions, and his companion, Miss Mary Duncan, who took the wheel when he collapsed, was wounded.

Within the concessions, however, the situation was unchanged tonight.

Legations are Guarded.
Further demonstrations of students and sympathizers with the Shanghai strikers were held in Peking today but the Chinese government sever diplomatic relations with Great Britain, because of the killing of nine rioters by British volunteers defending their concession in Hankow.

In the capital, the legations mounted machine guns for protection during the demonstration, while at Tientsin the British concession is guarded by troops of Marshal Chang Tse-Lin, the Manchurian chieftain, who has also stationed troops around the foreign concessions in Shanghai.

At Hankow, up the Yangtze river, from Shanghai, where rioting occurred last week, the foreign guards have been reinforced with Chinese troops, while the British, who have large interests there, have landed marines.

Japan May Send More Ships.
One of the storm centers, Kinkiang, and the adjoining city of Kuling, where there are 600 foreigners, mostly women and children, families of missionaries, also is being protected by foreign gunboats and Chinese troops following attacks. During the riots the Bank of Taiwan (Formosa), a Japanese institution, was burned.

Japanese troops, already well represented along the Yangtze river, are holding four more destroyers in readiness at the naval base of Sasebo, Japan, some 36 hours steaming from Shanghai, to be dispatched should the necessity arise.

GIRL SAVES HER LIFE
AFTER MAN IS SLAIN.
Shanghai, June 16.—W. W. Mackenzie was shot and killed and his companion, Miss Mary Duncan, slightly wounded by roadside snipers late last night (Monday) as they were driving near the American Columbia Country club on the Great Western road.

The shooting occurred about 10:30 o'clock.

Girl Tells of Shooting.
Mackenzie fell lifeless over the steering wheel of the automobile. Miss Duncan immediately seized the wheel and drove until she reached a point where police assistance was available. She received wounds in both hands while driving.

Searching parties early this morning were scouring the neighborhood seeking those responsible for the shooting.

Miss Duncan, telling of the killing of her companion, said:
"We encountered seven Chinese, dressed like coolies, who stopped us near the great western road extension. Mackenzie asked what they wanted and they laughed, at the same time turning flashlights upon us. Mackenzie alighted and, speaking in both English and Chinese, ordered them to leave. One of the Chinese then fired, and suddenly Mackenzie lurched forward, telling me he had been struck in the interest. The car had gained headway, and as he fell I took the wheel, steering the car, while the Chinese were still firing."

Had Never Driven Before.
It was discovered that Miss Duncan, who never before had driven a car, had guided the machine with the dead body of her escort for more than 1,000 yards before the party finally coming to a stop when the car pitched into a six-foot ditch. She then awakened residents of a nearby dwelling.

The Columbia country club is on route Duane, entirely outside of the international concession, although less than a mile from the settlement boundaries.

NEWSPAPER MAN DIES
FROM ASPHYXIA

Memphis, Tenn., June 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—Ben S. Prince, 30, newspaperman and former theater manager, was found dead late today in his home here. His death was declared due to asphyxiation.

According to a police report, the jets of a gas stove, against which his body rested, were open and a note found, addressed to his wife, directed that his body be buried in the uniform he wore as a soldier in France during the world war.

Mr. Prince served through the war as a member of a Canadian regiment. During his service, he was wounded and gassed, from the effects of which he is said never to have fully recovered.

AMERICAN COMMITS
SUICIDE ON STEAMER

Liverpool, June 14.—An inquest is to be held over the body of Robert Howarth, a salesman, of Miami, Fla., who died at sea rather than meet his wife in Liverpool.

Mrs. Howarth, who had preceded him here, released her husband aboard the Baltic to meet her when the vessel docked. Howarth walked to his cabin after receiving the wireless. Shots were heard and investigators discovered his body, a revolver in one hand.

The body was turned over to Mrs. Howarth when the Baltic docked. He is said never to have fully recovered.

ROTARIANS OPEN 16TH CONVENTION

Cleveland, Ohio, June 15.—By the Associated Press.—A vast army of Rotarians—officially estimated at 12,000—from the "four corners of the earth" stormed Cleveland to attend the opening session in Public hall tonight of the 16th annual convention of Rotary International.

The convention got under way with an organ recital and invocation by Dean Francis S. White, of Trinity Protestant cathedral, Cleveland. George H. Miller, president of the Cleveland Rotary club delivered an address of welcome, to which Canon William Thompson Elliott, of Liverpool, England, responded briefly. The Rotary annual memorial address was delivered by Frank L. Mulholland, Toledo, Ohio, former international president of the fraternity. Colorful Pageant Presented.

Then the curtain went up on the outstanding feature of the opening session, the colorful pageant "Rotary," with its cast of 500 performers.

The spectacle depicted the development of the principles of Rotary from the day of "creation" a chariot race, in which 12 horses were raced, featured the performance. The spectacle will be given another and final presentation tomorrow night.

Business sessions of the convention will begin tomorrow morning, featured by the address of President Everett W. Hill, reports by various departments of the organization, luncheons for incoming and outgoing district governors, and the introduction of the approximately 1,500 overseas delegates.

In the memorial address tonight Mr. Mulholland said in part:

"Tonight, as with loving thoughts and cherished memories, we recalled those Rotarians who have heard the summons of the 'muffled oars' we know that to 'live in the hearts of those we leave behind is not to die.' So let this hour be a memorial for our own dead, and with holy thoughts and tender memories let us live again with those dear ones gone, and by the force and strength of their unbroken and all-pervading influence, so shape our lives that when our work is done we may go softly to sleep, our souls replete with happiness and the consciousness that we have done our full duty and that the world is better for our having lived.

"In the late world war, millions of brave, capable and ambitious young men of our time and generation faced the discomforts and agonies of trench warfare, charged across No Man's Land amid the hail of hostile bullets, until the grave reached out and claimed them as its own—glad to die for home and native land.

"While men gladly die for their country, should we find it difficult to live for our country?"

home, she said, and told her he had given Billy some pills.

"Had Trouble With Stomach."

"He said Billy was troubled with his stomach because he did not take care of himself and always was out late."

She told of the trend of the youth's illness. Until five days later, she was permitted to be with him 30 minutes and was forced to sit six feet away. The next day she was permitted in the room only a few minutes.

"I was very unhappy about Billy and I told Mr. Shepherd I was willing to marry Billy if it would do any good," said Miss Pope, whereupon Shepherd informed her of the necessity of the presence of both in obtaining a marriage license.

Two days later, however, after Billy had become delirious, she did obtain a license.

Tells of Typhoid Study.

The young woman admitted that Shepherd had not told her the youth had typhoid until after a medical diagnosis. Then, she added, Shepherd said:

"I have made quite a study of typhoid and germs, and am relieved to know Billy has typhoid, because the doctors will know how to treat it."

Shepherd told her, she said, that Billy thought he might have got typhoid while in the east when attending the Yale-Dartmouth football game.

His story can be completed in 30 minutes tomorrow morning, said Joseph P. Savage, assistant state's attorney, who questioned her. After that Miss Pope must appear in court to defend plans, one of the most severe cross-examination ever directed at a witness.

Nullify State Witness' Evidence.

The defense started today by having another inquest jury decide in its own mind, but by an inadvertence in the state's direct examination of a witness was able to make up lost ground and in a reading, tearing at the state's case.

At the end of a two-hour argument in chambers, Judge Thomas J. Lynch ruled that the defense could not ask Dr. Amante Rongetti about his conviction for conspiracy for disposing of diplomas stolen from a college university at Milwaukee, Wis.

On re-direct examination, the prosecution asked the witness about a conversation with an otherwise unidentified Dr. Dwyer, and in pursuing that lead, the defense asked if Rongetti had not, upon his conviction, asked Dr. Dwyer to intervene with the medical board.

Wavers in Identification.

Dr. Rongetti wavered in his identification of the bulky, pale, middle-aged Shepherd as the "young, slender dark man" who had visited his hospital regarding a course in bacteriology, and who had asked about tuberculosis, and how typhoid germs entered a human body.

The witness also admitted that he had denied upon previous occasions that Shepherd had visited him, and also admitted that he had discussed changing fronts for $500, and that he had decided because of the precarious situation of his business it would be better to be on the side of the state's attorney.

The defense seemed to have another victory when Judge Lynch indicated he would rule out testimony intended to show young McClintock had directed the sale of the Shepherd-McClintock home in a fashionable North Shore suburb, but that Shepherd would not permit disposal of the place.

didn't let Russell alone," Mrs. Maddox is alleged to have said as she dashed the fluid into Mrs. Russell's face and scammed away.

Police were notified immediately and given Mrs. Maddox's name by the victim of the acid. They began investigation right away, which ended in the arrest shortly afterwards. Officers saw Mrs. Maddox at the corner of J. Luckie and Simpson streets and as they approached, she fled. After an exciting chase she was overtaken and taken to police station.

Mrs. Maddox denies any knowledge of the affair and asserts that she will be able to prove an alibi.

Mrs. Maddox said that she did not know either Mr. or Mrs. Russell, and that she is at a loss as to how Mrs. Russell associated her with Russell. She also said that she was driving in an automobile at the time the officers chased her, and that she did not know they wanted her until they caught up with her car.

Today was undergraduates' day when representatives from various branches of the university delivered addresses in the chapel.

Graves Is Ill.

Initiation of six new members into Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholarship fraternity, was the feature of this afternoon's program. Much to the regret of the Phi Beta Kappa society, the university authorities and especially his old comrades of the class of 1875 now in session here, Dr. John Temple Graves, who was to have delivered the oration in Washington, D. C., and was unable to attend the exercises, although it is said he had looked forward with much pleasure to the reunion of his class here this commencement.

It also is expected that the alumni meeting will be enlivened by a discussion of the faculty members to be in the selection of a chancellor to succeed "Uncle Dave" Barrow, resigned, who is only remaining in office until a successor can be chosen.

Social Features.

In addition to the business meeting the annual barbecue will be held at Woodruff hall. Ten classes will be in session and will hold banquets. Much color will be lent to the commencement program by visiting alumni.

The social side of the commencement is also being attended to by the undergraduates, who are enjoying

"frat" house parties and dances. The senior banquet was held tonight and tomorrow night the Thalian Dramatic club presents its play, "The Whole Town's Talking." Wednesday is graduation and Senator William B. McKinley, of Illinois, is the baccalaureate orator.

Initiated into Phi Beta Kappa are J. H. Monte of Monticello; H. B. Rothschild, Columbus; T. F. Green, Jr., Athens; C. W. Lowe, Buena Vista; W. E. Sewell, Newnan; Edna Hendricks, Metter; Mary Ferguson, Augusta, and Alice Whinn, Peeples, Mary Strahan and Albert Lombard, Athens.

The most seriously hurt was a steel worker who was knocked by the swinging derrick into the well of the building. He fell seven stories, landing on a concrete floor.

THOUSANDS ENJOY FIRST LIGHT OPERA

should, you will recall that there are a couple of ardent for Kaitiaki that require considerable voice to "put over." Miss Yago was forced to take encore after encore last night. That is the answer in her case.

Encore also provide the best analysis Robert Pitkin. He is the leading comedian with the company and, in "Kaitiaki," he found a role much to his liking. He reminds you a little of DeWolf Hopper, but with his own personality predominant. He was gone in a trice, and light opera really get its opportunity until "The Flowers That Bloom in the Spring." And, of course, the immortal "Tit-Willow."

Confounds Skeptics.

Dudley Warwick as "Pook-Bah," Charles Schenck as "Fish-Tush" and Ethel Wright as "Peep-Bo," were on a par with the rest of the cast. And what more can be said?

But a special paragraph is awarded Thomas Conkey for his work as "The Mikado." Mr. Conkey is a first magnitude comedian himself and scored heavily.

If there are any skeptics in the city in regard to this new thing in summer entertainment that has been brought to us, they cannot go to see "The Mikado" and retain their skepticism. The show is guaranteed. And really, the coolest place in the city is the auditorium with the new $25,000 cooling system working. In fact, it was a trifle too breezy and cool at times last night.

It is fortunate that the auditorium is the place where the six productions are to be given. For there would be no chance of accommodating the crowds anywhere else. While packed houses will probably not be seen frequently—for 6,000 seating capacity is a tremendous place to fill seven times in a week for the same performance, it is safe to say that the smallest crowd to come couldn't be put in any other theater in town.

And, let it be said, personally, that it is fortunate they began with a Gilbert and Sullivan work. For where, in all the realm of light opera, can you find any others as good? Maybe you can put up an argument about some few Victor Herbert things, or "The Prince of Pilsen," or "The Chocolate Soldier." But even they pale into minor things besides the joys of Gilbert humor and Sullivan's music. In my opinion.

Is "Sacred" Music.

Once upon a time, many years ago, when I was quite young, a dear old lady of seventy asked one Sunday night how I had spent the afternoon. I replied, "Playing the score of 'The Pirates of Penzance.'" She looked at me and said, "That is a very good first, and mentioned her belief that only sacred music should be played on the Sabbath. But then she added, with a twinkle:

"But I know Gilbert and Sullivan is sacred to you."

And it is. So that's that. "The Mikado" will be given every night this week, with a special matinee on Saturday. Special low prices have been set for this summer opera is essentially entertainment for all the people. The highest priced seat in the house is only $2 and there are two or three thousand at 50 cents each. It is an opportunity to buy $5 worth of entertainment for one-tenth the value.

The program of the other five weeks of the season, in order, is as follows: "The Prince of Pilsen," "The Spring Maid," "The Gypsy Baron," "The Pirates of Penzance," "The Mikado," and "The Gypsy Baron."

The Atlanta and Atlantans are due to give sincere thanks to the orchestra, with its leader, Paul Eliser; to Stage Manager Fred Palmer; to Producer Lewis J. Morton; to the group of Atlanta men whose faith in the success of the undertaking made the light opera season possible, to all the principals and, finally, to every member of the ensemble. These local people, who have worked untiringly for many months to achieve the perfection they displayed Monday are:

Summer Heat Is Conquered NO DOUBT NOW ABOUT SUCCESS OF SEASON And Light Opera Triumphs

BY H. C. HAMILTON.

Opera, always a winter or early spring institution, has conquered the summer heat. The fact was demonstrated Monday night when the Municipal Opera association launched with a production of "The Mikado" its six weeks of light opera in the city auditorium.

Outside the heat was oppressive. Men and women came to the doors palping for a cool breeze from the torrid atmosphere. But, as they walked through the foyer and into the amphitheater, their faces changed. They were greeted by a cool blast which swept from both sides of the building, chilled by ice and flung into the great room by two huge fans, driven by thirty-horsepower motors. Yellow streamers showed the source of the soothing breezes. They stood out straight from the gratings which hide the mechanism from view.

Cooler Than at Home.

The place was crowded and everyone expected to be at least a little warmer. The fact was proven to generate heat. Hot days and nights are not calculated as a rule to draw crowds to theatrical performances, but those who placed their bets on preparations for the light opera season were repaid for their optimism. They were cooler at the auditorium than they would have been had they stayed at home.

Comfort is inductive to appreciation, so the light opera company was greeted with a warmth of welcome which always is part of the home-paid worthy opera by Atlanta audiences. And when Paul Eliser's orchestra of Metropolitan Opera company musicians began to play, the curtain swung back and there was your old friend "a riot of color." Beautiful costumes, and entrancing scenery of the necessary Oriental type drew a burst of applause from the audience.

That was the main note of the premiere. It was a welcome to the company, an appreciation of the hard work of those who have trained the chorus, and a promise that Atlanta is going to support its opera—especially since it now is known to be a fact that the auditorium is cool and will be kept so.

Rainbow Predominates.

There was nothing subdued about the colorful spectacle. From shoes and kimonos—which everyone wore, of course the rainbow predominated. There was no shaded effect. The colors were red, yellow or some other bright hue.

This was the grandeur of the occasion, shared in by the chorus, which is composed entirely of Atlanta singers, trained to perfection by Lewis Morton, the stage director, and Paul Eliser, the musical director.

The end of the first act brought it out when encore after encore rang out for the leaders who had carried the first act in brilliant style. Finally the stars of the performance came out in front of the curtain and there was a bombardment of flowers for the women. Louise Hunter, Irene Dunn, Ethel Wright, all were buried under great baskets of flowers which were handed up to the stage. There were many of them—so many, in fact, that their progress back behind the curtain was almost barred. And all the time they were being sent up to support the first act, its hands and felt a little thrill that so fine a welcome was being extended these singers.

That was the main note of the premiere. It was a welcome to the company, an appreciation of the hard work of those who have trained the chorus, and a promise that Atlanta is going to support its opera—especially since it now is known to be a fact that the auditorium is cool and will be kept so.

RUSSELL SPEAKS OF FULFILLMENT OF PROPHECIES

"The accurate portrayal of events of national importance and personal experience, even to the extent of calling individuals by name and outlining their work and accomplishments over one hundred years before they were born is most certainly beyond the ken of man, and yet this is exactly what the Bible does, and upon this basis it makes its bid for our recognition as being inspired of God," stated Alonzo Bruce Russell Monday night at the big canvas tabernacle on Holdens street near Lucile avenue in a lecture on the "Foreknowledge of God."

Prophecy is the acid test of the Scriptures and speaking through the Prophet Isaiah, God hurls the following challenge to the world. Produce your cause saith the Lord; bring forth your strong reasons, saith the King of Jacob. Let them bring them forth and show us what shall happen; let them show the former things, what they be, and we may consider them, and know the latter end of them; or declare us things far to come. Show the things that are to come hereafter, that we may know that ye are gods! Isa. xli:21-23.

PROHIBITION FORCES PUSH RUM CRUSADE

Prohibition agents working under the direction of Fred D. Dismukes, federal prohibition director, are wiping out the "onsies" in Atlanta in their drive launched three weeks ago and closing up many places where liquor formerly was sold freely, according to Mr. Dismukes, who returned Monday from Washington.

"The boys have been exceedingly busy and have captured more than 7,000 gallons of whisky in the last week," Mr. Dismukes declared. "They have wiped out the retail dealers in the Mitchell street section and attacking several other known sources of supply."

Mr. Dismukes said he went to Washington to attend a conference of various officers of the federal prohibition service, but said the policies of the department would be announced from Washington.

Discussing the recent statements from Washington to the effect that "flying squadrons" would be shifted over the country, Mr. Dismukes said he knew nothing more of this move than had appeared in Washington newspaper dispatches.

The present drive in Georgia is being conducted vigorously and will be waged with renewed activity, Mr. Dismukes said.

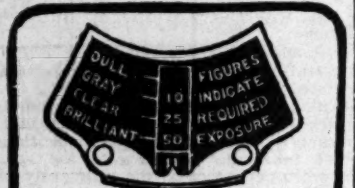

"It is mighty hard to get a drink in Atlanta right now," he stated.

The object of the drive is "intelligent preparedness," it was stated.

M. RICH STORE HAS DOMESTIC SEWING MACHINE AGENCY

G. S. Hedley, vice president of the Domestic Sewing Machine company, of Cleveland, Ohio, was in Atlanta Monday at the opening of the new agency at M. Rich & Brothers company. He is making a regular semi-annual tour of various agencies over the south.

The Domestic company is one of the oldest manufacturers of sewing machines in the country, having been in existence for more than 60 years. It boasts the distinction of manufacturing, in its own plants, every product going into its machines, including lumber, glue, varnish and even sand paper, it is said.

For the past few years company executives have been stressing the development and sale of electrically driven sewing machines, with the result that records show an increase in the sale of electric machines from 20 per cent of total sales five years ago to 75 per cent today, Mr. Hedley stated.

The new department opened Monday on the fourth floor of the M. Rich & Brothers company, under direction of G. C. Brantley.

WABASH SYSTEM NAMES CARROLL AS FREIGHT AGENT

M. A. Carroll, well known in railroad circles, has been appointed traveling freight agent for the Wabash railway, with offices at 620 Healey building, according to announcement Monday by local officials of the system.

Mr. Carroll's appointment was effective as of June 15.

INQUEST IS HELD IN DROWNING CASE

"Death by accidental drowning" was the verdict Monday of a coroner's jury, impaneled to investigate the death of Charles Smith, Jr., 24, Sunday afternoon at Dixie lake, a new summer resort near Fairburn. The inquest was necessary because there were no eye-witnesses of the drowning.

Numbers of swimmers were in the lake at the time and several had seen Smith just before he was drowned. No one saw him go under, however, and he was not missed until a bather stepped on the body in the bottom of the lake. It is generally supposed that he suffered a stroke of apoplexy. Smith's home was in Fairburn and he was a student at an Atlanta business college. He is survived by his father and several sisters and brothers.

ALTO SANITARIUM GETS $250,000

With payment Monday of $250,000 into the state treasury to the credit of the Alto sanitarium, that institution now has on hand the $500,000 appropriated for the building of a new anti-tuberculosis sanitarium, John M. Vandiver, state revenue commissioner, made the payment out of funds collected under the state tax on retail sales of cigars and cigarettes.

Last year a similar payment was made, it being provided in the original bill that collections from this source are to go to payment of Confederate pensioners, with the exception of $250,000 each year for the first two years, to the Alto sanitarium.

Total collections under the cigar and cigarette tax act last year were approximately $800,000. Last year was the first year of its operation.

BUDGET COMMITTEE DRAFTING REPORT

Members of the state budget committee will reconvene in the office of Governor Clifford Walker this morning to complete its work of drafting a skeleton state budget and recommendations for the next two years' state finances to be submitted to the legislature when it convenes.

The committee met Monday and continued its work of shaping up the financial sheet, begun at a session held last week.

While it is not mandatory on the legislature to follow the budget committee's recommendations, it is indicated that solons will be inclined to do so.

All state institutions and departments have submitted estimates of needs for 1925 and 1926.

POEM OF ATLANTAN USED IN HONORING UNKNOWN SOLDIER

"Two Stars," a poem by Platt Young, of Atlanta, which was dedicated to the Service Star Legion of War Mothers and read at their convention in Atlanta, was made a part of the program at the national exercises at the grave of the unknown soldier in Washington recently.

Mr. Young is historian and poet-laureate of the Atlanta Presidents' club. At the convention of the War Mothers at the Atlanta Biltmore, Mrs. Henry Frederick Baker, then president of the Service Star legion, read the poem before the convention.

It follows in full:

My Star of Blue shall vie with morning sun
To light my way o'er lilted azure sea
Of life's too little span. It sings to me
Immortal cadences of favored one
Who never knew a manly duty shun.

But if of rarest Gold it chanced to be
I still would pray in all sincerity
Gods will on earth be done.

My Star of Gold shall ever be a shrine,
Tossed back in beauty from a mother's breast
Where oft in love a dimple form I pressed
And pillowed in a nook, supremely mine

My Golden Star is part of God's design
Who some with Azure, some with Gold caressed.
But, holier than these, my son is blest
With God's own Star Divine.

10 Miles of 65-foot Boulevards— Asphalt-paved - 20 Miles of Sidewalk will be completed October 1st

VALUES are mounting at Whitfield Estates, on Sarasota Bay, because work goes forward unceasingly—$1,000,000 will be spent within the next three months to speed this marvelous residential area toward completion.

By October 1st ten miles of broad boulevards, 65 feet in width, will wind through the property and skirt the majestic bay; parkways adorned with every variety of tropic plant and bloom will line the gracefully curving streets and the twenty miles of sidewalks.

This is but part of the gigantic summer program—so sure to bring steady enhancement of values in this modern wonderland, just five miles north of Sarasota on Tamiarni Trail and Sarasota Bay.

Already many homes dot this rolling landscape; already many have taken up their residence here, where man's skill has so carefully preserved Nature's matchless beauty and endowed it with every convenience and comfort. As more and more people build, as more and more citizens live here, values continue to rise—and those who purchase now will reap the reward of their foresight, whether their wish is to live gloriously or profit greatly.

By Fall—wonders will have been worked. An extensive water system, with a 500,000 steel and concrete reservoir, a 125,000 gallon steel auxiliary tank and abundant pumping and aerating facilities will be installed. The gigantic sea wall for the mile of bay front will be completed—eight feet high and four feet thick at the base. A huge crew of workmen are going steadily forward, planting and nurturing the final growth of grass on the sporty 18-hole golf course designed and built by Donald Ross—to open on January 1st. Plans have been accepted from Pringle & Smith, Atlanta architects, for the handsome club house and its construction begins immediately—on a pine-topped knoll overlooking the course. All work is under the direct supervision of the Adair Realty & Trust Company, sole selling agents, and their corps of engineers.

Visit our offices in the Healey building and learn of the wonders here. Mr. Brooks Mell is manager of our Whitfield Estates department—call WA 1-nut 0400 for appointment.

New York, June 15.—Failure of last week's rains to spread over central sections of Texas, seemed the chief factor in today's advance in the cotton market. October deliveries sold up to 23.30 or 55 points net higher and closed at 23.10, the general market closing steady at net advances of 39 to 47 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 5 to 17 points. Early Liverpool cables were slightly below expectations but had little apparent effect here, where sentiment appeared to be dominated by the complaints of continued drought conditions in parts of the southwest. Failure of the official weather forecast to show any promise of further rains in Texas, except showers in the Pan-Handle, rather stimulated buying, and prices showed net advances of about 45 to 47 points before noon.

Reports that a correction had increased the New Orleans by about 32,000 bales were followed by dips in the afternoon, July selling off rather sharply. Offerings of later months were light, however, and the highest prices of the day were reached in late trading on reports of high temperatures in the drought section of Texas.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK

New York, June 15.—Cotton spot steady; middling, 24.20.

NEW ORLEANS MARKET IS MODERATELY ACTIVE

New Orleans, June 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—The cotton market was moderately active today and the price trend was upward. The market started out 12 to 19 points above Saturday's close although Liverpool came in easier than due. After a slight reaction prices again advanced and the upward swing gathered momentum when the weather map showed little rain in the drought portions of the western belt particularly Texas. Late in the morning, stimulated by the official forecast for fair weather in the west, July traded up to 24.20, October 22.75 and December to 22.85, the high points of the day.

Right after mid-season announcement of a plus correction of 32,498 bales in the local stock sent July to 24.00 and the later months receded in sympathy but lost no more than 10 to 11 points.

In the late trading the new crop positions rallied on reports of hot and dry weather in Texas and prices recovered all the mid-season loss, closing at the top and showing net gains for the day of 49 to 51 points. July gained net 25 to 26 points.

The market was dominated mainly by the weather, the only other development being the large and unexpected 3,000 bales of cotton from the British board of trade reported exports of cotton during May at 371,028,000 against 394,515,000 last year and 17,205,000 pounds of yarn against 18,023,000 last year.

Domestic consumption of cotton during May was deferred until tomorrow. Exports today 3,715 bales.

SPOTS IN NEW ORLEANS. New Orleans, June 15.—Spot cotton closed dull, 25 up. Sales on spot, 160; to arrive, none; low midling, 24.00; good, 24.40; good middling, 25.00; receipts, 610; stock, 113,382.

The Day in Finance

BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, June 15.—While no one was found in Wall street today who believed that there is going to be any serious trouble between the United States and Mexico, the tone of the news exchanged between Secretary Kellogg and Mexico's president was not liked, and consequently the stock market back-pedaled. Pan-American petroleum sold off over a couple of points at the opening and then came back. But this early decline caused profit-taking in other oil shares, traders deciding that as long as this country and Mexico's intentions are written each other unfriendly notes money in the bank would look better than paper profits in the stock market.

Failure of Pan-American Petroleum directors to increase the dividend today also was disappointing. Wall street has been expecting this dividend to be restored to the old 8 per cent. Only the regular quarterly dividend was declared at the old annual rate of 6 per cent.

Announcement by the government of withdrawal of $27,700,000 from the banks here had no effect on the money market. Call loans opened at 34 per cent with money on the outside market quoted as low as 34. There is so much idle money in the country that speculative Wall street has about given up its fear of any disturbance in the money market which in turn would be reflected in the stock market as a result of the heavy $400,000,000 July 1 interest and dividend payment.

May merchandise imports amounting to $328,000,000 were the smallest of the calendar year compared with $349,000,000 for April and $302,000,000 for May of last year. This is a decrease of $21,000,000 compared with the previous month, but a gain of $28,000,000 compared with last year. May exports of $301,000,000 compare with $400,000,000 for April of this year and $334,000,000 for May of 1924.

For the eleven months of the fiscal year ending June 30, imports are $3,502,000,000 against $3,280,000,000 for the corresponding period of last year. Exports for the eleven months are $4,540,000,000 in round numbers against $4,000,000,000 for the corresponding period of 1924. The excess of exports over imports for May was $42,000,000 and for the eleven months $1,038,000,000.

Business Volume of 22 States Shows Increased Activity

Current Business Activity State By State Comparison With A Year Ago

Business continues to be transacted in the heavy volume that has been in evidence all this year, if bank debits to individual accounts are any indication. The above map illustrates how bank debits for all save a few days of May, this year, compared with the corresponding period of a year ago state by state. It will be quickly seen that in no less than 22 states was marked improvement over last year's business activity. The states which registered a nearly 50 per cent advance were Florida, which for months now has been enjoying an unprecedented boom in real estate that has affected many other lines of business. In addition to the states which experienced a 12 per cent or greater improvement, there were 21 other states which showed moderate improvement, ranging from one up to 10 per cent. Only five states, the figures indicate, experienced a loss of business volume from a year ago. A most consistent advancement during

STORM-CENTER OF COURT FIGHTS CUT DOWN

Wielder as Big Oak Falls

Americus, Ga., Jan. 15.—(Special.) The old oak in front of Sumter county courthouse, which has been grown beyond the recollection of this city's oldest inhabitants, under which horses and automobiles of the hordes of hitched and automobiles of the hordes of officer holders were accustomed to be parked, was cut down last night to make way for the improvement of the paving of Americus street with asphalt.

Citizens awoke this morning to find the main laying pavement, where the oak once stood. During the early hours of Saturday morning these same workmen were busy with the removal of the city engineer and the member of the council was against cutting down the tree; while others were in favor of removing it in order, but this is taken with a grain of salt by some, because it was generally known that the board opposed the removal of the tree.

The tree, probably the oldest in Americus, was here when the first settlement was made in this city. It was the subject of court discussions on numerous occasions. Injunction after injunction has been taken out by citizens to prevent city council from removing it.

Only a short while back experts in tree surgery were brought to Americus to save the tree. It was ordered to destroy it. The city paid a rising committee supervise the raising of a $500,000 memorial fund to convert Woodrow Wilson's birthplace here into a national memorial and to preserve other places and objects of historic interest connected with the war-time president. Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia, is chairman.

Stanton, Va., June 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—Edward W. Bok, Charles Evans Hughes, Henry McManahan, Owen D. Young, Josephus Daniels, James W. Gerard and many others prominent in private and public life of America compose the ad-

The announcement of the advisory committee was made Monday by M. Fraser, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, where President Wilson's father was pastor when he was born.

The visit of the National Editorial association which paid tribute

Sergeant Vander Venthoven, had been killed in a motor accident.

The car, which the sergeant was driving back to the residency after bringing guests to the courthouse dance, swerved from the narrow road and rolled into a ditch.

The Monday morning dance had been arranged in order to avoid disappointment of the ladies of the capital.

The original program mapped out for the evening was to have included for his visit to McBane, capital of Swaziland. This meant an evening dance, and the European ladies of the capital might need to be cautioned, Bessie thought, that they would be much disappointed if the dresses were not used to Wilson here on the fourteenth day of its Virginia tour.

Dr. Fraser outlined the purposes of the national memorial campaign as three fold; to convert the manse property, wherein Wilson was born, as intended, the prince agreed to attend a special dance, beginning at one minute past Sunday midnight.

The season opened with the presentation of "The Mikado," before an audience rivaling in brilliance and appreciation that which greeted the premiere of the 1925 grand opera season.

Decatur Fine Arts To Give Reception At School

An interesting feature of the reception given by the Decatur Fine Arts club this afternoon will be a short illustrative exhibition of dramatic art by Miss Evelyn Lovett.

This will show a beautiful esthetic dance in classic costume and brief examples of dramatic expression. Miss Lovett will be accompanied by Mrs. Stephen Christian, Jr., of Atlanta.

This reception will be held Tuesday afternoon, from 5 to 7 o'clock, at Glenwood school, East Ponce de Leon avenue, Decatur. A cordial invitation is extended to all organizations and individuals who are interested in the fine arts.

Jewelry and beauty, wearing a wedding gown of white crepe-back satin, embroidered in seed pearls and crystals and tulle veil fastened with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

The maid-of-honor wore a beautiful dress of lavender georgette over pink satin, trimmed in silver lace. She carried a bouquet of lavender sweet peas, edged with white roses.

The bridesmaids were lovely in dresses of pink voile trimmed in ruffles of lace and satin ribbons. They carried bouquets of pink sweet peas edged with pink rose buds.

The flower girls wore dresses of pink voile trimmed with lace over pink satin. They carried profuse baskets of pink roses tied with tulle bows. With all the participants in their respective places in front of a background of banked ferns and cut flowers, all things harmonizing with the white soft candle lights and pink electric lights, it was a scene of exquisite beauty symbolical of dreamy fairy land.

The bride's mother was handsomely attired in gray canton crepe while the groom's mother wore black bengaline trimmed in heavy lace. Both wore corsages of roses.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George O'Kelley of the Athens-Winterville road and popular with quite a contingent of acquaintances. She is a graduate of Besse Tift college and a teacher of English and history of the Winterville high school.

John Robert Winter, young business man and agriculturist, is the oldest son of the late Henry A. and Mrs. Mattie Winter, a scion of the pioneer Winterville family for whom the town of Winterville was named.

The bridal couple left immediately after the ceremony for an extended trip through the mountains of north Georgia and the Carolinas. Upon their return they will be at home to their friends at the residence of the groom's mother, where they will reside.

Better Homes Report Given by Mrs. Wing

Mrs. Newton C. Wing, chairman of the Atlanta Better Homes committee, gives a resume of the year's work as follows: "A year of effort for the welfare of Atlanta, represented by a package weighing a few pounds, left Atlanta this past week for Washington, D. C. It bore the hopes of our citizens with it, who confidently expect that this record of the Atlanta 1932 campaign for better homes will merit the first prize of $500 offered by the national Better Homes in America for that community which offers the best demonstration of what constitutes a better home."

"Atlanta's demonstration this year represented the third year of our city's participation in the national Better Homes in America movement, which is headed by President Coolidge and Herbert Hoover, and is purely national and civic in nature, its workers being unpaid and serving purely from a love of community service. In 1932, this city won the third prize of $100 and in 1931 carried off the second prize of $200. Interest attaches to the use of this latter sum, since the entire committee voted unanimously last summer to give half of it, $100, to the Tallulah Falls school, the Atlanta drive for which was at that time going on. The remaining $100 was used to entertain the chairman of the national committee, and the Atlanta drive for which was at that time going on. The remaining $100 was used to entertain the chairman of the national committee, and the Atlanta drive for which was at that time going on."

"The year Atlanta's Better Homes topics, provided by the committee, and 1,500 took part in a poster contest. Many other thousands of Atlanta's school children are waiting the results, which will be in the carrying on of the homes, their equipment, furnishing, musical programs, etc."

"One hundred and fifty organizations of men, women and children took part, and every organization that has any connection with better homes work. Newspaper publicity of an extent hitherto unheard of in the carrying on of the homes, their equipment, furnishing, musical programs, etc."

"In addition to the committee members and the 26 main chairmen and members of the advisory board, untold numbers of Atlanta citizens are waiting the results, which will be in the carrying on of the homes, their equipment, furnishing, musical programs, etc."

Graham was handsomely gowned in beige georgette with real lace trimmings. Miss Abbie Graham wore a beautiful dress of green chiffon with cream lace trimmings.

Only the immediate relatives and out-of-town guests were present. The bride and groom left at once for a short wedding trip, after which they will be at home in the Laurens apartments, Atlanta, Ga.

Mrs. Drew is the daughter of Mrs. Josephine Graham and the late Mr. Duncan Campbell Graham, who was for years one of the leading citizens of McRae and Telfair county. She is a young woman of many charming traits of character, which have endeared her to hosts of friends throughout the state and in Washington, D. C., where for three years she has acted as secretary to Senator W. J. Harris. She is a sister of Judge Eschel Graham of the Oconee circuit, who is well known for his legal ability.

SOLDIERS' HOME ASKS LARGE APPROPRIATION

An increase in appropriations to the Confederate Soldiers' home from $40,000 to $45,000 annually is asked in the annual report of that institution submitted to Governor Clifford Walker Monday by the board of trustees.

I recommending the appropriation of this additional $5,000 the trustees said that the state should give greater care and comfort to the aged veterans of the war between the states who are now wards of the state in the Soldiers' home. The additional money, it is stated, is needed for employment of a graduate nurse.

There were three more inmates at the home on January 1, last, than one year before, it was stated, despite deaths of 33 veterans during the year.

"We found that 90 per cent of the veterans were happy and contented, the report said. It added that the other 10 per cent were malcontents who caused much worry to the management."

Regarding criticism of the use of convicts at the camp trustees said that this is the most valuable and cheapest way of caring for the aged veterans. It is stated, are more attentive and careful than regularly hired help and will perform many services which ordinary help regard as too menial.

EVERLASTING FLOWERS.

"I know there is something of interest about your work with everlasting flowers, Mr. Burbank, and it might well be told now," I suggested.

"A number of years ago I turned my attention to the improvement of these flowers and commenced by experiments with the rhodanthe, a double variety."

"To what family group do they belong?" I asked.

"Most of them are composites and they are generally annuals, although many of them become perennials in California and bloom throughout the year. They are of many colors—shades of red, yellow and blue, and they have the quality of retaining their form and color when dried, if cut with long stems just before opening fully and hung in a shaded place."

"Although the rhodanthe was supposed to be double, only a small proportion of the seedlings were double and my work consisted in making them so and filling up the centers."

"The flowers varied greatly in color and size and proved good subjects for selection, but the plants bore very little seed, and although the experiments have produced an improved variety the new type has not become entirely fixed."

"One of my collectors in Australia sent me a variety known as the Australian Star flower, resembling the rhodanthe, but much more beautiful, its white star-shaped flowers blooming abundantly and exelling all the others."

"After I had grown it for a few years, it began to show a tinge of pink here and there, and by selection the size of the blossoms were greatly increased making it semi-double, and improving the color, so that it became a clear rose pink."

"These new varieties do not as yet breed wholly true from seed, but they are wonderful improvements every way on an already beautiful flower."

"These everlastings have unusual keeping quality, and a chemical process has toughened the fibers and given permanence to the colors of the blossoms. So when the improved varieties of the Australian Star flower became known, I was requested by a French milliner to fill an order for 10,000,000 clusters of these flowers."

"He wanted them in a single lot and added that only this number would make it profitable for him to handle the shipment. This was, indeed, an unexpected commercial possibility for the new plant, but pressure of other work prevented me from doing anything further in the matter."

"You have experimented a great deal with Australian plants, have you not, Mr. Burbank?" I asked.

"Yes, I have used them for hybridizing and have improved existing varieties by selection, and among the best known is my winter rhubarb, which bears throughout the year in a favorable climate."

"Some years ago I imported all of the best varieties of apples which had originated in Australia and New Zealand and had some curious results."

"These varieties from other hemisphere arrived during our spring time, which is autumn in their own home. Some of them at once began blooming, both then and during the summer, while others refused to bud or blossom until the following autumn, winter and spring."

"The change of seasons at first disturbed their habits until they became adjusted."

WOMAN'S BACK STOPPED ACHING

I Suffered Three Years. Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Paul, Minn.—"I have a little girl three years old and ever since her birth I have suffered with my back as if it was breaking in two and I had a bearing down feeling all the time. I also had dizzy spells and was sick at my stomach every month. I had read several letters from women in the newspapers and the druggist recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to my husband for me. As a result of taking it my back has stopped aching and the awful bearing down feeling is gone. I feel stronger and do all of my housework and tend to my little girl. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills for constipation. I have recommended these medicines to some of my friends and you may use this letter as a testimonial if you wish. I will be pleased to answer letters of other women if I can help them by telling them what this medicine has done for me."

Steering the Bark of Dreams

AN EDITORIAL BY JAMES WALLEN

To steer the bark of dreams into the harbor of fulfillment is a task to try stout hearts.

Every man who cherishes ideals knows that to succeed in putting them into actual operation he must have encouragement and sympathetic cooperation.

To keep a good store, to maintain standards of merit and beauty, to see that price and values balance is an enterprise for the Olympians of business today.

No house has the slightest right to ask customers to condone faulty merchandise but it has fair reason to expect and receive appreciation for superior quality.

There never was a time when storekeeping demanded greater vigilance, more exacting study or more thoughtful procedure in stocking merchandise.

And it is peculiarly a period in which the householder should keep a keen eye on his or her purchases to the end that the values and not the so-called "bargains" gain entrance to the home.

In the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Store success is accomplished with the aid of loyal customers. The patrons of the house know that in the hearts and minds of the proprietors of this store, value comes first and foremost.

BY MILDRED BARBOUR

THE SHOCK.

To her mother's questions about what Johnny Linsell had told her, Jane made evasive answers. She was shaken to the soul by the old woman's insistence that Mansfield was in trouble, and that she should go to him.

A week went by while she argued with herself, saying one minute that she was a fool to believe in the ramblings of a negro soothsayer, and the next that she was a coward not to investigate the possibility of their being true.

At the end of the week, she had decided that she could not stand the suspense longer. Abruptly announcing at breakfast her morning, that her vacation was ended, she departed, leaving her mother with the Duleys.

But she did not return to New York. She went instead to the city where she was born, where she had known so much happiness and so much trouble, where the man she loved was. Once she had arrived there, she was rather foolish and helpless. There seemed no way of ascertaining whether or not Mansfield was in trouble.

There was nothing about him in the newspapers, not even in the back files which she read carefully in the library. But credence was lent to the old woman's story when, on calling the Weston Motor company she was informed that Mr. Mansfield was no longer there.

Jane was astounded and frightened; it was incredible. What was the matter? In-law should not still be with him in business. She wondered if he could be ill, or if Helen's ambitions for a wider social field had taken them to a larger city.

She took a taxi and drove past the house where they were living when she had left town. It was apparently unchanged; there were the same pretty awnings and boxes filled with flowering plants and Helen's electric stool at the curb.

More puzzled than ever, Jane returned to her mother's little apartment. It was hot and stuffy by comparison with the Virginia farmhouse, she prepared to leave supper, remembering with a sigh the appetizing meal which was probably at that moment being served at the Duleys.

When darkness fell, the place became stifling and unattractive to Jane, who was put on her hat and went for a walk in a park some distance from the apartment building. She had stopped and was leaning on the stone parapet looking down at the mysterious, black river which flowed through the park, when she became aware that a figure alone in the shadows, another figure leaned. It was a man and his attitude of complete detachment attracted Jane's curiosity. It was just so, she thought, that people leaned and stared into waters before jumping into their embrace.

She wondered if there were thoughts of suicide in the mind of the stranger in the shadows. Involuntarily she moved closer, and hearing the man turned.

It was Mansfield, but a Mansfield so changed in the past year, that she scarcely recognized him. He was thinner, his hair was grayer, and he had a look of suffering about him.

"Hi!" he cried incredulously. "He stared at her for a minute as though he were a ghost."

"Jane, is it really you?" Jane held out both hands to him, forgetting of their last meeting. "Hi! you have been ill!"

"I have been through torment," he said. "You are no longer with the Westons."

Public School Figures Prove City's Growth

Further substantiation of figures showing the growth of Atlanta's population during the past year was given Monday by statistics released by M. E. Coleman, director of census and attendance of the public schools, which shows that during the past year, the closing day attendance in Atlanta schools increased by 1,952 students.

Using the government multiple of five adults for each child in school, the increase in population would be 9,760, or approximately the same as shown by comparisons of the number of water, electric, and gas meters in use now and at this time last year, and the increase in the number of telephone subscribers.

The total attendance for the year was 45,194, as compared with 43,242 last year, the figures show. Total enrollment was 54,520, or a substantial increase over last year's 53,491.

THE HAWK

By DANE COLLIDGE

SYNOPSIS.
Duke Crabtree, known as the Hawk, has just been taken on as night herder for the NA cattle company, in the Powder river district. Arriving, a small independent cattlemen, rides up to the NA outfit and quarrels with the range boss, Connolly, over some lost cows. The company manager, Cato Clark, arrives on the scene accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Clark. After a short quarrel, Connolly transfers his quarrel to Clark and draws his gun on him when the Hawk intervenes, and threatens to shoot Arrants if he doesn't get up his gun. After Clark's departure, Connolly quarrels with the Hawk and fires him. The Hawk rides over to the Clark home to tell Anita he has left the outfit, but the Hawk refuses to leave, and thus makes a bitter enemy.

The Hawk rides into Bull Hook, the nearest town to the range, and there meets Dull Knife Arrants. He offers to buy a partnership with him and together they retrieve Arrants' lost cattle. The Hawk rides over to the NA ranch while a dance is in progress, dances with Anita, and is ordered off the ranch by Clark.

INSTALLMENT VIII. THE FIGHT AT DAYBREAK.

"Hey, here's that piece in the paper," spoke up Dull Knife one morning, after a prolonged search through his war bag, "where it says all mavericks are public property. I don't care about Texas—this is Wyoming, understand?—and the cattlemen themselves put it through. Hard Winter Davis, that runs cows over on Salt Creek introduced it in the legislature himself; and, being as the big men are gitting theirs, what say if we git ours—let's go down and pull a few off of Cheaters!"

"Not just now," answered Duke Crabtree, softly.
"Aw, I know what's on yore mind, you figure on marrying that gal and gitting the old cow thief for a stepfather-in-law; but she's engaged to that Englishman, and she'd throw you down anyway, so what's the use setting around?"

"No she isn't," retorted the Hawk, "I asked her."
"Yes, and what did she say?" demanded Arrants.
"She said she wasn't," replied Crabtree shortly.

"Aw, she'd tell you anything," scoffed Dull Knife. "Ain't I telling you what she did to me? What's the use of setting around and looking down yore nose? What you need is some violent exercise."

"I believe you're right, for once," agreed the Hawk.
"Why, of course, I'm right," laughed Dull Knife. "You take my advice oftener and you'll be happy all the time, like I am. I ain't setting in the sun dreaming about no woman whatever—I'm through with 'em all, until I'm rich. And then I can take my pick of any of them; that's all they think about—money! Here, read this article in the paper."

They fought the willing bronk—

He thrust the yellowed clipping into Crabtree's unwilling hands, and stood watching him with his big, staring eyes.

"Well, if that's correct, why don't you shake out your rope and go after 'em? That's the way all these Texans do."

"Not my kind!" corrected Crabtree. "My old man would disown me if he heard I was out after mavericks. That's against the law, back in Texas, and these Texans you see up here are traveling for their health, most likely."

"Hey, do you know what's going on right down here below us? Well, I'll tell you; and I know what I'm talking about. Old Cheaters is manager and stealing cattle from them Englishmen and Noisy Connolly is stealing from him, and half them company cowboys is tying down likely yearlings and branding them for some settler's daughter. Then they'll marry the gal as soon as they git blackballed and settled down to be respectable!"

"And meanwhile Cavey Hooten and them out and out rustlers are driving them off by the hundreds. But ain't Cavey a pretty good man? He used to be foreman for Old Cheaters down below here, and turned around and stole for himself. Now Cheaters is out after his scalp."

"They're a hard outfit those rustlers," stated Crabtree. "At least, they're mighty hard looking, what few have come through here."

"What's the matter with you this morning?" demanded Arrants impatiently. "Seems like you're mighty particular all at once. The time may come when those rustlers will look good to you, when Old Cheaters gets his gunmen on our trail. You're liable to wake up some morning with the Winchester popping and the bullets coming through between the logs; and then when you're plumb out of cartridges, like I was, Cavey Hooten will show up on the rim. Blam! Blam! It's all over but the foreworks and the horse racing down the canyon, because one man up on that wall can whip a regiment down on this flat, and them gun slingers know it well. No, you lay off of Cavey Hooten until Old Cheaters gits through with us—are you going down to help me ketch mavericks?"

"No, you go. I'll ride out tonight."

"Well, I'm going, then!" decided Dull Knife. "No, I'm not either; this here it too good to last. They're jest leaving us alone to cap us into some ambush and then go down and ride that bronk!"

The Hawk jumped up, and as they fought the willing bronk in the dust of the round corral, a head rose up from behind a distant boulder—the gunmen of Cato Clark had come. All that day the head bobbed up as shouts of boisterous laughter gave proof of the presence of Dull Knife, and when night settled down the gunman crept closer until at last the cabin was still. Then he turned and slipped away and as daylight was breaking four men, armed with rifles, tiptoed back. Inside on the broad bed which half blocked the sprung door the Hawk and Dull Knife lay sleeping and, leaning their rifles against the house, two of them drew their pistols and stood ready. Their leader made a sign and, kicking in the door, the two men rushed inside.

"Put 'em up!" they cursed, "we've got you covered!" And as the Hawk woke up he saw a gun pointed at his head. He turned and made a grab for the pistol beneath his pillow, and the gun went off in his face. But in that one lightning moment he had avoided the bullet and he whipped out his own pistol and fired. The second man shot back, and the Hawk shot twice at him before Dull Knife joined in with his six shooter, and then in the darkened cabin there was a belching fusillade and the assassins turned and stumbled out the door.

"Come on!" shouted Dull Knife, flinging it back and starting after them; but as he dashed out into the open a man behind the house plunged forward and jabbed a rifle against his back. But before he could pull the trigger a shot rang out from inside and the rifle fell clattering to the ground. The man staggered and turned back, and before Dull Knife could shoot he doubled around the corner and was gone. The other three had fled, leaving their rifles behind them, and Dull Knife ducked back inside.

"Lord Almighty!" he gasped, "that Jasper nearly got me—he was waiting there to shoot me in the back!"

"I hit him!" answered the Hawk, "did you see him drop that gun? Come on—let's give 'em a run!"

"Nope, they're laying for us," grumbled Dull Knife, "we'd better stay inside. Liable to shoot down and pot us from the rocks. But wasn't that a cowardly thing to do—jab a man in the back and then shoot 'em?"

He rubbed his back against the wall and pushed the door shut, and for a minute they stood peering through the chinks.

"I'm looking forward to a little talk with Mistuh Clark!" stated the Hawk, and Dull Knife grunted scornfully.

It was dusk when the Hawk slipped out the door and took up the trail of the killers, and as he followed their fleeing tracks Dull Knife Arrants stalked behind him with his eye on every bush and rock. Darkness fell, but still the Hawk with his nightseeing eyes followed the bootprints and the blood trail of Connolly and at last, far up the creek, they came upon their camp—but the NA gunmen had fled. Their coffee pot and Dutch oven still stood by the fire, but the ashes were cold and wind-swept, and a bloody tarpaulin showed where two wounded men had lain down before they had abandoned their beds. Pack saddles and provisions had been hurriedly cast aside, and up the trail a line of horse tracks marked their flight.

"Let's go after 'em," proposed Dull Knife. "They're cutting around behind us to git back to the NA ranch."

"Then why not head for the ranch?" suggested the Hawk.
"All right," agreed Dull Knife, "and I only hope Old Cheaters is down there. That's the man we ought to get—he hired 'em."

"You just wait till I've talked to him," returned the Hawk.
"Well, come on," grumbled Dull Knife, "let's be riding."

They went back to the corral and saddled their best horses and when, after a long gallop, they came in sight of the NA ranch, they could see lanterns bobbing around in the corral.

"They got in ahead of us," said the Hawk stopping short. "You wait here—I'll slip up and look."

"Don't you start anything, remember!" warned Dull Knife, but Crabtree did not answer him directly.

"I won't start anything I can't finish," he promised at last and Dull Knife saw him glide off into the night.

Paint that stays new longer

Fresh from the brush, any paint at all looks fine. But time is the test; how long that gleaming newness lasts depends on how much the makers tried for permanence in their product. Not many house paints meet this test as it is met by Tripod Paint.

Though all we claim for our product is its merits as just a right good paint, yet it covers as much surface to the gallon as any paint actually will, more surface than most paints and stays new-looking a long, long time under the trying Southern sun and rain. This frank, common sense statement perhaps appeals to you enough to get you to figure with us.

ATLANTANS ADDRESS GEORGIA DRUGGISTS

Savannah, Ga., June 15.—The Georgia Pharmaceutical association began its 50th annual convention at Tybee today. A. R. Munn, of Atlanta, second vice president of the association, presided.

After the invocation by Rev. Silas Johnson a short address of welcome was delivered by S. N. Harris, mayor of Tybee.

The addresses by President Jasper L. Brooks, of Tifton, and A. R. Munn, of Atlanta, featured in the morning session. Fifty-eight new members were elected to the association at the morning session. Reports of committees were received and the report of the delegates to the N. A. R. D., was read by Secretary T. A. Cheatham, of Macon. The afternoon was occupied with an address, "The Drug Business in Georgia," delivered by W. D. Jones and an informal address by C. V. Hohenstein, secretary of the Atlanta association. Reports were submitted by T. A. Cheatham, secretary; D. G. Wise, treasurer; E. L. Murray, secretary of the board of pharmacy, and T. A. Cheatham, drug inspector.

About 200 members of the association attended the first day's sessions. Tomorrow morning will be occupied with the annual election and installation of officers of the association, election of a member of the board of pharmacy, general discussion of reports and papers.

Members of the association and their families will be entertained to-morrow afternoon with a boat ride down the Savannah River to Tybee. An inspection of the shipping facilities and the industries along the water front at Savannah will be made if time permits.

Wedding Bares Strange Pranks Of God of Love

Cartersville, Ga., June 15.—(Special.)—A real life story rivaling the most modern and approved fiction came to light here today when it became known that Charlie Newhouse, leading young business man, has remarried his former wife, whom he divorced several months ago, in order that she might wed her first love.

The Newhouses now are receiving the congratulations of friends for the second time at their vineyard love nest on Forrest avenue here. They declare that only death shall part them a second time. Roses are blooming, birds are singing and happiness and romance reign again within the walls of the cottage.

Friends of the couple, who only today learned of the reconciliation and remarriage, related the story of the former pranks of the little love god who played them false once, but who now seems determined to make amends for his past misdeeds.

Their version of the affair follows: When martial music filled America in 1918 and the youth of the country were preparing to make a stand for America on the European battlefields, the first chapter of the unusual romance was written. Miss Maude Lowe, pretty and popular belle of Fort Oglethorpe, became engaged to Oscar Meadows, of Chattanooga.

But then Charlie Newhouse, a dashing young lieutenant gallant, of Cartersville, arrived on the scene. He wooed with such ardor and success that Miss Lowe terminated her engagement with Meadows early one morning and later the same day became Mrs. Charlie Newhouse.

The war ended—peace came—and the glamour of the military romance waned during the next four years. Mrs. Newhouse frankly told Newhouse that her heart yearned for her first love, Meadows, and that she wished to be free. He consented. A divorce was arranged.

Mrs. Newhouse became Mrs. Meadows sometime later. But love again was fickle. She wanted Newhouse, her first husband, and Newhouse wanted her. The vacant chair in Newhouse's cottage was still unfilled. This became known, and after negotiations, which for the most part were kept secret, Mrs. Maude Lowe Newhouse Meadows became Mrs. Maude Lowe Newhouse Meadows Newhouse.

So Newhouse still predominates.

And again the alibi failed

LATE again! For the third time this week she has had to keep dinner hot so long that it isn't fit to eat. And while he really was working, he has a hopeless feeling that the alibi isn't going over.

Even a box of candy won't convince her that there is any reason why he should be the only man to work overtime.

Some day they are going to wake up to the fact that a Corona at home would enable him to leave the office on time and finish up his work after dinner. The newest Corona has the same keyboard as the big machines in his office.

The price of Corona Four is $60 cash. Easy terms arranged if desired. Call or phone for a demonstration.

A HOME ON RIVERS ROAD

We are now in position to offer for sale a house that we can thoroughly recommend. It is situated on Rivers Road, between Habersham Road and Muscogee Road; a locality which is one of the best of the residential communities around Atlanta. This is a two-story house, containing eight rooms and two baths, with vapor heat (four bedrooms); the bathroom is such as to give two bedrooms and bath on the first floor and two bedrooms and bath on the second floor. The lot is of unusual size, fronting 125 feet and running back 500 feet, but is much wider in the rear; it is the largest lot platted on the Peachtree Heights map. On the premises there is a two-room servants' house with bath and also a double garage. The house is practically new and in perfect condition from top to bottom. We have inspected this house and our salesmen are enthusiastic over it. We have recently been authorized to make the price $20,500. The house has not been offered before at this figure. Make an appointment with our salesmen to inspect it.
